This move will follow the nation wide election held Saturday.

City Loses Suit Against P. S. C.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 5.—The supreme court of the United States today dismissed the appeal of the city of Buffalo, N. Y., against the state public service commission, testing the right of the commission to fix street railway rates.

Why the Rondout Creek Was Muddy

The waters of the Rondout creek were extremely roily today, and as there had been no hard rainfalls rivermen wondered what caused it. Inquiry at Ellenville brought out the fact that the trouble was caused at that part of the creek. Two brooks whose waters flow into two small reservoirs supply that village with its drinking water. Sunday the water in one of the reservoirs became so roily that it was shut off and the village was supplied from the other reservoir. The roily water in the other reservoir was emptied into the Rondout creek which caused the waters in the lower creek here to become muddy.

ACADEMY OF MEDICINE BEING FORMED HERE

By Kingston Physicians and Surgeons For Advancement of Medicine and Good Fellowship.

HEADQUARTERS IN KINGSTON TRUST BRANCH

To Have 25 Charter Members at First Meeting and Banquet Thursday.

Kingston physicians and surgeons are forming the Kingston Academy of Medicine, an organization for advancement in the science of medicine and for the promotion of good fellowship among its members. The new organization is along the lines of the New York City Academy of Medicine and similar societies in many cities. The action taken is in pursuance of a resolution adopted at a recent meeting of the Ulster County Medical Society and at a preliminary conference committees were appointed and rooms engaged for headquarters.

It is the purpose to make the Academy's rooms, which is over the Kingston Trust Company's Broadway branch, a combination of social and scientific headquarters and clearing house for members. The rooms will be open daily and it is hoped to build up a library and a complete file of the leading medical magazines. Notices of clinics in the local hospitals will be posted and clinics of special interest and importance in New York and other hospitals will also be received. Educational matters from other academies will be received and big men in the profession will be brought to Kingston to give talks.

Any physicians in good standing is eligible to membership and non-resident members will be welcomed. The new organization will start with at least 25 charter members when it holds its first meeting which will follow a banquet at Wiltwyck Inn on Thursday evening of this week at 9 o'clock.

Wishes Children For Three Days

Hudson Asks To Take Them From Springtown Where They Live With Their Mother To Union Hill—Couple Estranged.

At a special term of the supreme court held Saturday before Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck here an application was made by Joseph Hudson of Union Hill, N. J., for permission to have possession of his two children for three days in order that they might accompany him to Union Hill and visit friends. The application was opposed by Selma Hudson, the wife, who resides on a farm at Springtown, this county and who has possession of the children. Mr. Hudson in applying to the court for permission to have custody of the children for that time offered to deposit such a sum of money as the court deemed sufficient with such person as the court might designate, to insure their safe return at a specified time to the mother.

Chris. J. Flanagan appeared on behalf of the father of the children and Roscoe Ellsworth of the office of Brinnier & Canfield appeared for the mother and opposed the granting of the order.

The Hudsons have had considerable trouble in recent years. Mr. Hudson who is engaged in business in Union Hill, N. J., some time ago secured permission from the courts to see his children for a certain time every two weeks on Sunday. An application was also made at one time to have custody of the children about Christmas time so that he might take them to the city. At present Mrs. Hudson resides on the farm at Springtown and he lives at Union Hill. There are several actions now pending in court which arise out of the differences between the two. One is for separation and another is an action brought by Mr. Hudson against Elmer Benson for assault. He claims that he was assaulted by Mr. Benson, who is employed on the farm, and by Mrs. Hudson.

At present Mr. Hudson furnishes nothing for the support of the family. The application for custody of the children was opposed by Mr. Ellsworth who stated that if such permission was granted and the children were taken out of the state and out of the jurisdiction of the court the money deposited by Mr. Hudson would be but a small thing compared with the custody of the children who might be taken to Canada by their father once they were out of New York state. Mr. Flanagan argued that Mr. Hudson had been given the permission to have the children each second Sunday for a stated length of time and he never made any endeavor to take the children out of the reach of the court. He contended that the children had been born in Union Hill, N. J., and knew people there and the father desired to have custody of them for three days in order that they might visit these people.

Papers were taken and decision reserved.

Lack of Hotel Rooms May Lose Convention

State Secretary F. S. Faye of Brooklyn, of the Junior Order, United American Mechanics, was in this city on Friday last and with some of the officers of Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, made a tour of the city to arrange for rooms and a hall for the annual state convention of State Council to meet in this city, September 22 and 23. The state council met in Kingston in 1913. It is expected that 500 delegates from all over the state will be in attendance and many will bring their wives with them. In the opinion of Secretary Faye and those who accompanied him in his tour of the city to arrange for rooming the visitors there is a big lack of accommodations for delegates and therefore a need for a large hotel.

All of the hotels and large as well as small rooming houses were visited and by doubling up in rooms in many cases it was ascertained that satisfactory accommodations could be definitely set down for only 400 people.

Conlin Is Held For Grand Jury

Charged With Driving an Auto While Intoxicated—Sam Basch is Discharged, but Grand Jury Will Investigate—Other Cases in Police Court.

Edward Conlin was arrested Sunday evening on Hurley avenue by Policeman Ray Van Buren, who charged Conlin with operating an automobile while intoxicated. This morning before Judge Schirick in police court Conlin waived examination and was held to await the action of the grand jury. Bail was fixed at $1,000.

According to the police report of Conlin's arrest he was driving on North Front street and ran into an auto of R. L. Stall of No. 69 North Front street, which was parked at the curb. He then drove on and was caught on Hurley avenue. In the car with him was a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Pauline Jilout of Jersey City.

On motion of Attorney Frank W. Brooks in police court Judge Schirick dismissed the charge against Sam Basch of lower Broadway who was arrested charged with selling a stolen Ford car to Samuel Kunst. Attorney C. J. Flanagan, who appeared for the district attorney's office, stated it had been impossible to serve subpoenas on three witnesses in New York and for that reason were unable to proceed with the hearing. It is understood that the grand jury, which went into session today, will investigate the charge against Basch and that the witnesses who were summoned to testify in city court have been notified to appear before that body.

John Bouton of 121 North Front street, arrested for speeding 32 miles an hour Sunday, paid $10 fine.

Walter E. Deury of Tannersville, arrested for speeding, will have a hearing May 10.

Albert Holmes, a brickyard negro, paid a $5 fine for public intoxication. He was arrested by Officer Sachloff.

Daniel Mahoney, a tourist, arrested by Special Officer Lechive on a charge of disorderly conduct, was jailed for five days.

Bonus Blanks To Be Had Here On May 7

From Kingston Post, American Legion—Don't Write To Albany For Them—Other Directions.

Bonus Payments Begin May 10

Application Blanks Sent to State Armories Where Veterans Will Be Assisted in Filling Them Out.

Announcement was made today by the New York State Bonus Commission that the actual payment of the $45,000,000 bonus will begin May 10. Today 500,000 application blanks will be forwarded to Posts of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, other Veteran organizations and to State Armories.

The veterans should seek the post or armory most convenient for them and be assisted in filling out the applications. No application blank will be accepted unless it bears a serial number and has stamped on it the name of the post or armory where it was filled out.

It is not necessary to send original discharge papers to the Bonus Commission; all any veteran need do is to present himself at the headquarters of any of the veteran organizations or armory where stenographers and notaries public will aid him in making out his application. The law provides that only a certified copy of the discharge is required and this can be secured by going before any notary public. It is essential that the blanks be filled out with the assistance of some one familiar with the work, as mistakes will only delay the payment of the bonus.

Applications will not be mailed to any individual who resides where there is a state armory or a post of any of the world war veteran organizations. The various posts and organizations have made extensive preparations to file the claims of the veterans. Committees have been appointed and certain times set apart when typists and notaries public will give free service to all who apply.

Several cities have appropriated money for the conduct of special offices and for clerk hire. Rochester will spend $2,500 to assist the Monroe county veterans. In many other cities the municipal authorities have allotted space in municipal buildings to veteran organizations engaged in assisting the applicants.

TESTIMONY TAKEN IN TWO DIVORCE ACTIONS.

Daniel J. Houser of this city has brought an action for divorce against his wife, Ella B. Houser. The acts upon which the grounds for divorce are laid are alleged to have taken place at Troy. The Housers were married in 1906 and have three children. Testimony was taken before Justice Hasbrouck in special term Saturday. Andrew J. Cook, of the firm of Van Etten & Cook, appeared for Mr. Houser.

Testimony was also taken in a divorce action brought by Mrs. John L. White against her husband. The Whites reside at Saugerties and the acts upon which the action for divorce are based are alleged to have taken place at a road house in the town of Ulster. George F. Kaufman appears for Mrs. White.

HUNTER WILL HAVE NEW $18,000 MASONIC TEMPLE.

Some time next month the new Masonic Temple of Mount Tabor Lodge, F. & A. M., of Hunter, will be completed and will furnish in the Catskill Mountain district one of the most modern and best equipped fraternal homes in this section of the state. The building will represent an outlay of approximately $18,000.

The new building is located on Main street, next to the Elks' Hall. It is of frame construction, with arched stucco front. The interior will be finished in up-to-date fashion and furnishings will correspond. Lodge rooms are on the second floor; the first floor will be occupied by reception rooms, dining room and kitchen. Mount Tabor Lodge has 170 members, its jurisdiction covering the territory between Windham, Prattsville and Mount Tremper.

SHRINER'S ASSOCIATION ANNUAL MEETING MAY 9

May 3, 1924.

Kingston Post, No. 150, Department of New York, Office of the Adjutant, 53 John street, Kingston, New York.

Editor, The Freeman:

It is expected that on Wednesday of next week (May 7th) Kingston Post No. 150, American Legion will have application blanks for the New York state bonus ready for distribution.

The director of the Soldiers' Bonus Bureau asks that I give the following information publicity:

1. No application will be considered by the Bonus Commission unless it bears a serial number, to be placed thereon by our post, and has stamped thereon that our organization has prepared the application. Blanks will also be supplied to the local armory for distribution, subject to the same rule.

2. Applications will be prepared at the office of our adjutant, Eugene B. Carey, No. 53 John street, and at the office of our service officer, Thomas F. Coughlin, No. 293 Wall street. We will also establish an office at the state armory, which will be open for certain hours in the evening, the exact time to be determined and announced later.

3. Veterans are requested not to write to Albany for an application, for one will not be mailed to any veteran living in Kingston. Writing the commission only retards their work and causes delay.

4. Our organization is prepared to furnish all information regarding the preparation of the blanks and will assist the veteran in the filling out of the application.

5. That the veteran bring with him all necessary information so he can fully answer the required questions and that he also have his discharge papers.

6. That the claimant for the bonus of an incompetent soldier should apply direct to the Soldiers' Bonus Bureau, Albany, N. Y., for an application and state what branch of service in which the soldier served. Our organization will prepare the application for the bonus of such a person when it is received from Albany.

7. Each application will have to be acknowledged by two persons who actually knew the applicant at his date of entry into service.

8. Do not call by telephone for a blank which must be obtained personally.

Respectfully

HERMAN I. DU BOIS
Commander.

Albany Has Police Czar

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., May 5.—Albany settled back today and prepared to watch Daniel T. Marcy, the new assistant chief of police, clean up alleged vice and rum joints in the city and put discipline in the police force.

Marcy is planning his course of action along lines similar to those adopted by General Butler in his drive against lawlessness in Philadelphia.

He was raised from the rank of ordinary patrolman at the request of Mayor William S. Hackett. He has the mayor standing squarely behind him in everything that he does.

"Clean up the city and put some pep in the police force," the mayor is reported to have told Marcy.

Before being elevated to the rank of assistant chief, Marcy was a clerk at police headquarters. He had held that position for about a year.

Eastern States Exposition.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Springfield, May 5.—Contracts have been awarded and work has been begun on the new industrial arts building of the Eastern States Exposition which, when completed, will be the largest structure of its kind and purpose on any exposition or fair ground in America. The building will be devoted to the display of farm and industrial machinery, domestic devices and appliances and manufactured products. The contract calls for its completion on August 15, and the building will be in use at the annual fall exposition that takes place this year from September 14 to 20 inclusive.

"An Old Fashioned Mother."

The play, "An Old Fashioned Mother" will be given at the Wurts Street Baptist chapel Friday evening, May 9, at 8 o'clock. There will also be refreshments.

A Chauffeur Examination.

The state department will hold a chauffeur examination at 11:30 o'clock the morning of May 14, at the city hall.

Winners Meet Tuesday.

There will be a special meeting of the Winners' Class of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church Tuesday evening.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

HIDE-AND-SEEK

"We're going to have a party," said the Queen of the Fairies.

"Hurrah," shouted the other Fairies.

"And we must ask all our friends," the Queen of the Fairies said.

"We must ask old Mr. Giant, Witty Witch, the Oaf family, the Bogey family, the Gnomes, the Elves, the Brownies, particularly F[illegible] Brownie and his brother Bennie and Effie Elf.

"They always enter so into the fun of a party.

"They are ready to play all the games. They do not sit in corners and act as though they didn't like anything that was going on.

"And we must call the Breeze Brothers so that they will take around our invitations for us."

Fairy Princess Twilight-Bell called the Breeze Brothers and asked them if they would take around the invitations.

"The party will be tomorrow," the Queen of the Fairies said.

"We'd be delighted to take around the invitations," the Breeze Brothers said.

So off they started in their slightly blustering fashion.

They came back again—almost it seemed before they had had time to get really started—and they said that every invitation had been accepted.

That was the way it almost always was. Everyone accepted the invitations to parties which the Queen of the Fairies gave.

Her parties were sure to be such nice ones.

Well, the party was splendid!

Most of all they played games. They played hunt-the-thimble and the thimble, which was really a little acorn, was hidden again and again.

When the one who was hunting got near where the acorn really was all the Fairies would shout:

"Warm, warm, getting warmer. Oh very hot indeed."

And then, very often, the one hunting the thimble or acorn would make a mistake and go off away from the right spot and all the Fairies would shout:

"Oh, getting chilly, very chilly, almost cold."

They played Prisoners' Base and Tag, Still-Pond-No-More-Moving, and throwing the slipper and they had races and jumping contests and each did a special trick for the first prize for the best trick.

Witty Witch won the prize by turning a most wonderful cartwheel somersault.

No one knew she could do it. And all were very much impressed.

Old Mr. Giant won the second prize by standing on his head—even though he didn't stand on his head very long.

But that, as everyone knows, is not an easy trick to do even for a second or so.

Peter Gnome won the Booby prize by turning somersaults which were scarcely more than ridiculous tumbles and he greatly enjoyed his prize of a tie made out of ribbon grass.

Old Mr Giant's prize was a book made of birchbark with extra pages for him to keep a diary in, and Witty Witch's prize was a box of Fairyland candy—candy that simply "melted in the mouth" in very truth as Witty Witch said.

But the last game of all was the one over which they had the most fun. That was hide-and-seek, and they hid behind trees and tall ferns and under mossy beds.

Oh, that was a game, they all decided, above every other game in the world.

"Peter Gnome Won the Booby."

SOMETHING FOR DINNER

A soup which is somewhat out of the ordinary and provides a nourishing dish for the bill of fare is:

Cauliflower and Tomato Soup.—Rub a head of cooked cauliflower through the colander, mix with two cupfuls of sifted tomato, add two cupfuls of broth in which the bones of a turkey or roast have been cooked. Season with three teaspoonfuls of salt and one teaspoonful of pepper. Cook one tablespoonful of minced onion in three tablespoonfuls of fat until brown. Stir in four tablespoonfuls of flour and add the vegetable pulp and stock. Stir until boiling. Serve with rings of sweet pepper as a garnish.

Apple Delmonico.—Butter a baking dish and lay in a layer of tart apples cored, pared and cut in rings. Sprinkle with ground almonds and sugar, cover with another layer of apples, add crushed macaroons, pour over a sweet preserve juice or jelly and bake three-quarters of an hour in a quick oven. Pile on whipped cream and serve.

Virginia Sweet Potatoes.—In Virginia, the home of this delicious vegetable, this is the popular way of cooking it: Parboil the potatoes, peel and slice while hot. Lay in a buttered dish, sprinkling each layer with salt, sugar and bits of butter. Cover with a layer of buttered crumbs, add a few tablespoonfuls of hot water, cover closely and bake until the upper layer is browned.

Green Peppers Stuffed With Rice.—Cut the stem ends from green peppers, remove the white fiber and seeds, parboil for five minutes then dip in cold water, drain and stuff with seasoned rice. Pour a cupful of stock around the peppers and place in a hot oven to bake, basting three times with the broth. Serve as a luncheon dish.

NOVELTY STILL REIGNS OVER FASHION'S DEVOTEES

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Among the novelties which are constantly streaming in from abroad may be mentioned black kid gloves, their little link gauntlets banded with bright silvered kid. There seems to be no end to the trivolities which glove designers are putting out. Women appear to like them, since all smart shops report a call for novelties in gloves as well as handkerchiefs.

Some of the newer handkerchiefs are hand painted and have dainty silhouettes and completed heads or figures in color on crepe. For that matter, gloves have had hand painted motifs before this, but these, as well as embroidered effects, have not taken as well as perforation and contrasting strappings. Cut work showing a contrasting color beneath, having attained great millinery popularity, has also been used for gloves. One dainty bridal glove has a flower motif in cut work effect half way to the elbow, the glove being a white glace kid. The stitching at the back of the hand is a slender stem and flower pattern. Eyelet embroidery is also used for neckwear.

Last winter, when society sunned itself on the sands, many voile, handkerchief linen and heavier linen dresses were worn, which were perforated and embroidered in contrasting color. Long allover eyelet embroidery tunics were in several instances worn over a contrasting color, with the under color set in a wide band, forming the skirt beneath. A straight line dress sometimes worn with and without a belt had an Italian cutwork design directly in the center back and front, the rest of the dress quite plain.

New interest is found in belts, and no wonder, for some charming novelties are being introduced. For that matter, almost anything which is a belt, is a novelty, so rapidly have we accustomed ourselves to doing without them. Very narrow cotton belts in bright colors and with stripes which follow or cross the line of the belt, are among the novelties. This type of belt is also affected by men who go in for sports. Roman ribbons with bayadere stripes are another belting novelty which is being shown these days.

At last it seems as though we may have a chance for something new in hosiery, not that there is not variety in color among the present range. It is a distinct relief to hear that Paris is sponsoring what is termed phantom colors, meaning of course, very sheer hose which match or at least tone in with the costume. The most delicate texture makes of course, for the indefinite tint. Mauve, orchid and yellow are, with greens and blues, among the newer range. These are particularly harmonious with the tailored suit, from the Paris viewpoint.

Dr. Swinburne, Specialist Gives Wonderful Relief To Many Patients After Failure of Local Doctors.

Mrs. Earl Howland of Andover, N. Y., writes as follows: Dr. Swinburne has saved me from the grave and I cannot praise him too highly. I was a total wreck from stomach trouble for seven years. Had tried a number of doctors but they could not help me. Could eat very little, and would have sinking spells and nearly die. After taking three three months' treatment of Dr. Swinburne I can say I am cured and feel like a new woman.

TO RESTORE A HEALTHY STOMACH WILL HELP MANY OTHER DISEASES.

In nine-tenths of the ailments there is some weakness of the stomach and poor assimilation of foods that has caused the more serious disturbance. If you have already developed other disease conditions such as headache, recurring vomiting spells, gall stones, jaundice or the more distressing disorders of malnutrition, neuritis, neurasthenia, rheumatism or heart weakness, you should at once begin a course of treatment to build up digestive and assimilative functions and the results from such treatment is often astonishing.

Rheumatism Relieved by Treating the Stomach.

Mr. Henry Cole, a fireman, was so badly crippled from rheumatism that he had to give up work, and could only get around with the aid of crutches. He had treated with a number of doctors without obtaining any relief, until he became much discouraged and thought there was no hope for him.

His attention was called to a similar case where Dr. Swinburne had produced wonderful results in relieving rheumatic trouble by giving treatment to cure the stomach of the terrible acidity, and stop the accumulation of acid in the blood, and Mr. Cole decided to make one more effort to obtain relief. To his great astonishment and joy, he found after one month's treatment he had no further use for the crutches, and after three months he was entirely relieved and was enjoying perfect health.

If you are suffering from any chronic or obscure disease, you should call to see the doctor, for there will be no charge unless you want treatment.

Doctor's next visit to 163 Clinton Ave., Kingston, on Wednesday, May 7th, from 9 a. m. to 12 m.; 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.; 6:30 to 8 p. m.

Perfumed Opiate Used by Addicts in London

The narcotic squad of the London police department is reported to be excited over the recent discovery of a perfumed opiate which officials believe is being used by the drug trafficker to lure the unwitting into the drug habit. While investigating conditions in the night clubs—particularly those of a lower category which are associated with the cocaine traffic—the police discovered the perfume.

The officials believe that the importers of the odorous drug—it is distinctly foreign to England—reserve it especially for the novice in drug using. It is generally known that the first taste of drugs sometimes produces anything but the desired effect, and it is just this effect, one of nausea and vertigo, which the police believe the perfumed alkaloid is intended to offset, remarks the New York Times.

Experiments with the recovered perfume show that it need not be administered at all to produce a craving for it. All that is needed is to allow the vapors to float across the nostrils of the intended victim. One of the morbidly curious, who was not a veteran drug addict, explained the procedure of the drug vendor in popularizing his exotic product. She said that she had entered a drug rendezvous to look on. A woman presently approached her after she had experienced the pleasant odors of the strange essence and remarked about the perfume. The visitor said she liked it, whereupon the woman told her where it could be bought. Thinking she had purchased a rare essence, the visitor lifted the stopper of a vial once, twice and then succumbed to a coma. This ended, but she craved again for the vial and thus her addiction began.

While analysis has not yet revealed the composition of the alkaloid, its symptoms are very similar to those of heroin. It is described as a rich and languorous transparent fluid of heavy but not sickly odor.

How Can the Infant Cry So Loud and Long?

In meditating the other day on one of the most familiar lines of Tennyson, "An infant crying in the night," I decided that insufficient attention had been given to it by physiologists, phonologists, music teachers, elocutionists, singers and public speakers.

Even these men and women who are fortunate enough to possess, like Marion Crawford's Roman singer, a throat of iron, do not dare to shout and shriek continuously for the space of two hours; whilst the average adult, if he roared for 15 minutes, would probably be hoarse for two days, and might seriously, perhaps permanently, injure his vocal chords.

Yet a tender infant, with a throat as soft as water, can yell all night fortissimo, and not only do himself no injury, but in the morning be fresh as a fox hound, and not only be able, but quite willing, even eager, to continue.

What is the secret of the baby's voice production? It seems to be a matter worth serious investigation. In addition of tone the infant unconsciously has a system that shakes the Italian appear crude. If singing masters could discover what it is, and teach it, all present methods of vocal study would be revolutionized.—William Lyon Phelps in Scribner's Magazine.

NEW DISKS REPLACE SEMAPHORE SIGNALS

Three Lights to Give Warning on Railroads.

Coshocton, O.—The old semaphore railroad signal system is doomed, according to officials of the Pennsylvania railroad in charge of the installation here of new automatic disks which are being installed at a local tower, one of four towers at which such systems are being installed between Pittsburgh and Columbus.

In the place of semaphore arms they are erecting signal posts along the tracks, upon each of which is mounted a huge disk, with lenses upon it. They are operated by levers—both the automatic and mechanical systems—just as were the semaphores. The signals of old in principle are retained—horizontal position means stop, a 45-degree angle, caution, and a vertical position, clear. But rows of three lights now give those signals instead of semaphore arms.

The new system provides additional protection and safety, it was claimed, through interlocking switch and signal devices and through absolute automatic blocking. As soon as a train passes a clear signal the horizontal row of three lights—a stop signal—immediately takes the place of the vertical row of lights.

New System Used to Anchor Big Steel Towers

Springfield, Ill.—Construction of a 83,000-volt electric steel tower line from Keokuk, Ia., to Galesburg, Ill., introduces into Illinois a new system in anchoring steel towers for protection against destruction by wind and hurricane, according to officials of the Illinois Power and Light corporation.

"The system, they said, known as the Malone anchor, has been tried out in other states and has proven a success."

A hole 5 and 8-10ths inches in diameter is drilled. A charge of dynamite is lowered into the hole and exploded. The explosion tears a space 5 feet wide and 2 feet deep at the bottom of the hole. Into this larger space is poured concrete, which serves as the foundation of the steel tower. The steel beams are sunk into the concrete with the result that the base of each leg of the tower is approximately 5 feet wide, whereas the leg itself is only about 5 inches wide. The terrific impact of the explosion hardens the 5-foot space with the result, officials said, that "no wind or hurricane can destroy it."

Parrot Swears Himself Out of the First Prize

New York.—Fine feathers had Pedro—feathers green and yellow and scarlet; and when the birds picked up by passengers and crew of the steamer Empress of Britain on a 30-day cruise to the West Indies were brought together in the grand salon for a mid-ocean bird show, Pedro was easily the handsomest exhibit in the parrot class.

"Pretty Polly!" gurgled a white-haired, sweet-faced matron; "Polly want a cracker?"

"Car-r-ramba!" said Pedro, fixing his interlocutor with one eye

"Goody, goody!" laughed a little girl, clapping her hands. "Polly want a cracker?"

Pedro turned around three times, flapped his wings, and brought his other eye to bear on the little girl. "Diablo de siete colas?" he muttered. But that was one of his mildest expletives.

And if anybody wants a parrot that can talk, they can get one through Captain Liata of the Empress of Britain, which docked here

For Pedro swore himself out of first prize.

Oil Well in California Yields Pure Gold Nuggets

San Bernardino, Cal.—A number of pure gold nuggets, each about the size of a pea, have been baled out of the 600-foot level of an oil well being drilled in a canyon near here. Geologists explain the gold probably was carried down the prehistoric stream known to be flowing 500 feet under the surface. It is believed this stream flowed on the surface before upheaval of the earth's crust formed the San Bernardino mountains.

"Only Way to Treat Crooks Is Kill Them"

Philadelphia. — Mrs. Mary Hamilton of New York, first policewoman in the United States and head of the bureau now being created in New York with 100 women under her, called on Director Butler recently to urge the advisability of establishing a force of policewomen in Philadelphia.

The general greeted Mrs. Hamilton with:

"You're hard-boiled, like I am, aren't you?" Mrs. Hamilton replied that she was, and Director Butler continued:

"I'm glad of it. All these theories and reformist ideas don't appeal to me. There's only one good way to treat a crook. That way is to kill him and keep him out of mischief from then on. These reforming ideas don't appeal to me. I don't want to reform anybody."

Must Pay the Price

For anything worth having one must pay the price, and the price is always work, patience, love and self-sacrifice. No paper money, no promise to pay—but the gold of real service.—John Burroughs.

Small Hat Still Fashion Favorite

Sailor, Tricorn and Many Variations of Cloche in Limelight.

Although both large and small hats mingle in the new collections of the leading modistes, the present mode seems to favor the latter and neglect the wide brimmed models. This is due, notes a fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune, to the unusually long life of the ubiquitous cloche, which has almost become a uniform with both the Parisienne and the American woman.

But the rounding crown and the mushroom brim of the cloche are giving way to other types of small hats, noteworthy among them being the small sailor and the tricorn, the latter a change of brim only, as the crown of this style hat also conforms to the head.

Then there are the many varieties of the cloche, which seem to spring up overnight. The newest version is the small hat with upturned brim which rolls up in front, at the side or in back.

Black is far and away the smartest chapeau shade, followed closely by combinations of black and white. The newest color note in Paris is poppy red, as vividly crimson as the flower itself. Combined with either black or dark blue it forms a striking combination. Other important colorings include the various tintings of brown, the wood shades and green

Milan straw, taffeta, satin, moire, felt and crepe de chine, used singly or in conjunction with each other, are the leading fabrics of the modiste. A slightly different note is sounded through the use of ribbons, both moire and grosgrain, as the material for the hat itself.

Greatest variety is offered in the way of ornamentation. Ribbon elaborates almost every type of hat. The tailored models stress buckles and ribbon bands as well as fobs. Embroidered monograms appear on drooping ribbon trimmings while jeweled ones settle on the brims of upturned models.

The single white gardenia, the ribbon cockade, the embroidered motif and medallion all come in for their share of attention on the bonnet And last, but never least, comes the irrepressible scarf, this time appearing with the hat in a matching set.

Variety of Fabrics to Make Tailleur Popular

So successful has been the simple tailored suit from the first week of appearance in the world of fashion that its creators have been compelled to keep on the alert for new materials The suit of twill, hairline stripes or covert has become a standardized mode.

These suits are not the prerogative solely of slim youth. They have been adapted cleverly to every type of figure Even a large woman may wear one and know that she is correctly and appropriately dressed.

A strong reaction in favor of tweeds and homespuns has been noticed and the fact that reports from Paris tell of tweed and homespun suits created by several of the most famous designers is expected to influence the vogue of these materials in this country.

The new woolens of this type are lovely. Colors in many cases have been inspired by nature. One sees the soft tones of sand, the subtle shades of heather, colors taken from the plumage of birds and, most interesting of all, colors that faithfully reproduce the browns, tans and creamy yellow seen in butterflies' wings For this reason they are called butterfly tweeds.

Kinds of Bobs That Are Not Considered Stylish

There is that old-fashioned looking kind of bob, which, for all its newness, is familiar. You survey it curiously, particularly if it appears at dinner on a head which at breakfast wore slick black coils. The bangs—the close, flat contour, just waving softly above ears which were modestly covered not so long ago—that boyish flatness at the back—"where," you ask yourself, "have I seen that head before?" Well, if you must know, in the family album of 1880 or thereabouts, tight basques, long sleeves, tie-backs and all. Only then women mostly wore French twists, with the hair tucked under. If you look at a picture of Irene Bordoni in "Little Miss Bluebeard," you'll see the type This is very piquant, and in some cases very charming, and it's the kind of bob which has made a creature of distinction out of many an ugly duckling For the quick, sparkling boyish type this shingle bob is lovely indeed, and just now it's very good Even for mature women it has proved successful, but it takes a great deal of grooming, and your head must be very well shaped for the reason that there is nothing in this fashion to disguise it. There is no means of placing a corrective accent here or there, nor developing a curve where Nature has made a plane If your head is beautifully sculptured the shingle will bring it out to perfection In any case it is very young—and that is not to be despised.

For elongated ovals—those faces which Nature has made long and mournful, or thin and gypsy like—the right bob is a wonderful thing. And the right bob is likely to be the fluffy, even flapperish kind, with width across the ears and curls to soften any sharpness of contour and severity of chin And as for a high forehead—well, if you have one, dispose your long hair as you like, but cover it when you bob, for nobody, nobody, should look "highbrow." It isn't done It may be that you are one of those women whose hair grows beautifully around her face in enchanting curves and scallops and such interesting natural devices as widow's peaks It may be that your curls are of the sort that take heart in a sea breeze, and positively flourish in a rain, while other less fortunate locks have immediately lapsed into shoestrings In either case you are to be congratulated—you probably couldn't make it look ugly by any fashion of bob.

Meanwhile selection is advisable for most of us, and curling tongs, brilliantine and hair waves will continue to be in demand.—The Designer.

An Artificial Silk That Resembles Baronet Satin

The Fashion Art league, in its annual fashion show recently at Chicago, sponsored fulgurante, an artificial silk that resembles the baronet satin of seasons past. An informal frock in white fulgurante shows a new tier treatment in overlapping effects. The embroidery is white beads and crystals and gold threads The skirt is ten inches from the floor A scarf is only a scarf until one meditates on possibilities of a long, trailing affair that is literally a shawl in orchid chiffon crepe, the same fabric of the gown. The trim is a border of the fabric, box plaited and fringed. The draping of the long scarf makes or mars the costume. Violets hold the slight drape at the side—and violets, dear ladies, are the flowers of fashion. Beads take new and various designs; one of the most unusual is a stole of white satin beaded in shaded green crystals, which forms a round yoke in front, and is fastened and a flying panel in the back. The underslip is similarly beaded on a gown of white flat crepe.

It's Worry That Kills

Hard work, with a peaceful harmonious mind will never kill anyone; and when it is accompanied by serenity, hope and joy, it builds up the system and prolongs existence instead of shortening it, but worry kills, and not to stop it is slow but certain suicide as well as the destruction of much of the joy in the lives of one's best and choicest friends.—Aaron Martin Crane, Illinois Central Magazine.

Green Gold

The term green gold originated in the early days when someone declared that metals went through a process of evolution and ripened at last to a finished product. The originator of this false theory claimed to have the secret that aided gold in refining Green gold is an alloy. When 17 per cent silver is mixed with gold, a green color is produced.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 5, 1924.

A correspondent speaks of General Dawes as replying to a question while "striking the fifteenth match for one pipeful of tobacco." Smoking must yield precedence to talking or working, yet there are housewives who "can't understand why men use so many matches."

According to Dr. Richard Gottheil of Columbia University, who appears to be of German extraction, in most of the German schools of today "a new Ten Commandments" is taught, the second half of them reading as follows: "6. Thou shalt hate France forever and ever. 7. Thou shalt disdain from the bottom of thy heart all that is French. 8. Thou shalt nourish in the heart of thy children the spirit of bloody revenge. 9. Thou shalt keep alight continually the flame of vengeance. 10. Thou shalt await with confidence the coming day that will bring thee peace and revenge." Nothing is more amazing in this monstrous effort to sow the seeds of future war than the assumption that revenge can bring peace.

LAW AND THE PEOPLE.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, has the courage of his convictions. At the dinner of the Missouri Society in New York the other night he appealed to men and women of religious faith, of moral principle and of public spirit to strike the 18th amendment, the "cause of all this demoralization," from the Constitution. He declared that the national prohibition law cannot be enforced, that it should not have been passed, that no liberal mind can support it, and that "it is no more moral or immoral to drink or refrain from drinking alcoholic beverages than it is to eat or refrain from eating roast beef." He denounced the hypocrisy of Senators, Representatives and Judges who are "secretly bibulous" while openly supporting prohibition. He warned against the peril to the Bill of Rights and the dangerous assumption of police powers by the Federal government to the detriment of State rights and home rule accompanying the effort to enforce the Volstead law.

Dr. Butler's reference to "all this demoralization" calls to mind an article in the April Atlantic Monthly which takes the ground that democracy is breaking down because people are getting into the habit of disregarding law and doing as they please. It is true that disregard of one law—our present difficulty—tends toward disregard of law in general, but the responsibility would seem to rest less upon the people than upon the lawmakers, who need to be watchful and deliberate in making laws before they are quite sure that such laws will be acceptable to the majority of the people. Hitherto Americans have been a law-abiding people, and there is no real basis for the assumption of a sudden change in their character. The wide repudiation of a single law now witnessed is a phenomenon that calls for earnest and fearless inquiry on the part of the elected "servants of the people."

A REMARKABLE PROPOSAL.

Altogether surprising is the recent news that the Greek government, in response to the request of Ambassador Morgenthau, has consented to the shipment of the Hermes of Praxiteles from Olympia and the carrying of the famed statue on a tour of "education in art" through the United States. The plan has not yet gone as far as official acceptance from Washington of so great a favor to the art students of the United States. If Philadelphia finally rebelled against the traveling of the Liberty bell for exhibition purposes, we can imagine the feelings of Greek art lovers at the thought of the risk involved for perhaps the most valuable of the few priceless treasures which their country still retains. The bell might pass through an accident and still remain the bell, but a mable statue would be ruined even if not entirely smashed, and in this case it could never be reproduced. Possible loss at sea or through railway accident are thought to be minor dangers compared with the not unlikely results of the shaking and strains put upon a statue 2,300 years old which may already be approaching the period of disintegration.

No wonder the head of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York declares that such a risk should not be taken. His view is the more impressive because the Hermes of Praxiteles is the only extant specimen of Greek art of its kind, a masterpiece of sculpture said to be next to the best that Greece produced in the zenith of its glory. Let sculptors of the present go to Olympia to study it rather than take the risk of depriving the future of such inspiration.

AUTOMOBILE GAS POISONING.

You read frequently in the papers of some motorist who was picked up unconscious in his garage, simply because he allowed his motor to run for a few minutes with the doors of the garage closed.

Frequently these motorists have been found lying on the floor near the exhaust.

What's the trouble?

It is due to poisoning by the exhaust gas from the engine.

The trouble with this form of poisoning is that it comes so quickly and without symptoms.

You may be working around your car, feel just a little sick at the stomach but nothing more.

Sometimes there is a sort of dizziness and headache also.

This headache is of the "pounding" type over the entire head and particularly about the temples.

The limbs lose their power, and you are apt to fall down, and being unable to get to the door, unconsciousness ensues, and if not discovered in time, death follows.

Now these cases of automobile gas poisoning are more frequent than is generally thought.

However what I have in mind is that many motorists suffer from light attacks of gas poisoning and are not really aware of what is wrong. Perhaps you work about your car a great deal testing the engine, changing the adjustment on the carburetor and so forth. The garage door is closed or partly closed. You get a slight amount of poisoning in this manner.

Further, you go out on a crowded highway and get behind a truck which is occupying the center of the road. Perhaps a half dozen cars are between you and the truck.

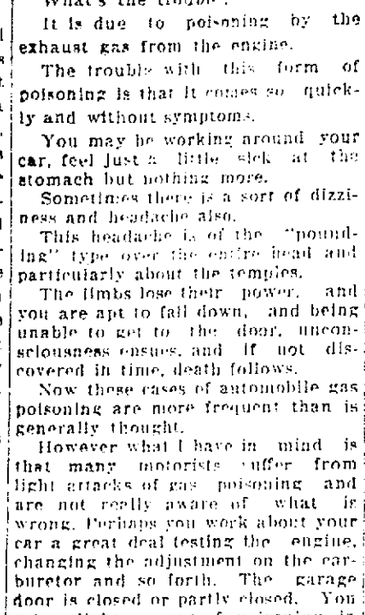
The exhaust from the truck and from the other half dozen cars comes in through your wind shield or windows and you are thereby poisoned. The result if you get much of it, and often, is to thin your blood, and give you a tired out feeling.

You wonder why you get no refreshment from your automobile ride. The number of automobile mechanics who say they feel half sick all the time is increasingly greatly.

Many garages doing extensive repair work are introducing ventilating systems, and other devices, to prevent this condition amongst their employes.

There is only one cure—Real fresh air.

Will Try New Flight Across Nation.



LIEUT. RUSSELL MAUGHAN

The War Department has announced that Lieutenant Russell Maughan, trans-continental flier, will, about May 15, attempt a new daylight-to-darkness flight from New York to the Pacific Coast. He made two similar attempts last year, being forced down first in Missouri and a second time at Cheyenne, Wyo.

WHY

Tropical Plants More Deadly Than Snakes.

In some tropical jungles there are plants whose stings are dreaded quite as much as the bite of a poisonous snake. In Central America there is a terrible nettle which is a distant cousin of that which grows in our own hedges.

The stem, leaves and flowers are covered with long, sharp, stinging hairs, really tubes made of very brittle tissue. When one of these is touched it breaks diagonally, leaving a kind of sharp-pointed funnel.

The point penetrates into the flesh and the poison is poured into the wound from a gland in the plant.

The "cruel nettle," as the plant is called, does not often cause death, though its stings result in sores that are painful for a long time. But there are other plants in South America and in the East whose poison is so deadly that it will kill human beings in a very short time.

In every case nature has devised the sting as a protection. The plant is juicy, and but for its poisonous weapons would be eaten by insects and animals; as it is, it is allowed to grow undisturbed.

Why Cubs Wept When Hunter Killed Mother

Illustrative of family affection among bears a story was related by E. D. Crabb, associate lecturer at the Public museum, in an illustrated lecture in the museum lecture hall, at Milwaukee, Wis.

An expedition of scientists hunting bear specimens in western Canada shot a huge female grizzly. When they reached the carcass the faces of two cubs were seen staring in great surprise from among the rocks. Fearless, the tiny cubs slowly went to their dead mother.

There they smelled the blood from the bear's wound and seemed to realize what had happened. For a time they stood awestruck in the presence of death. Finally their grief overcame all other emotions.

Tears welled slowly from the eyes of the cubs and soon, grief-stricken, they wept as human being would, mourning their mother. Reproachfully looking about, one of them caught the eye of the trapper who had made the killing.

The cub walked to the rock on which the hunter sat, put its forepaws on the man's knee and slowly raised its head to look into his face. Before long tears were coursing down the man's cheeks.

But it was too late. The bear mother was a specimen.—Milwaukee Journal.

Why Steak Was Tender

An uptown restaurant in New York is noted for its good steaks. They are said to be as tender as the skin you love to touch. But it happened that a skeptic heard of them—a man who had lost his faith in restaurant steaks. "I'll bet there's a string to it," he said, in his world weary way.

"Well, go and see for yourself," they told him.

So out of curiosity he went. He ordered a minute steak and attacked it eagerly. And sure enough the knife slashed through as though it mistook meat for butter.

Still he wasn't satisfied and began to examine everything. Again he took up the knife. Then it all became clear.

The blade was sharp as a razor.

Now he walks past the restaurant without stopping. But inside the regular patrons, blissfully ignorant, continue to order the tender minute steaks.

On the "Plains of Abraham"

The Plains of Abraham, near Quebec, overlooking the St. Lawrence river, took their name from Abraham Martin, a Canadian pioneer of Scotch descent who was a pilot on the St. Lawrence in the time of Samuel Champlain, founder of the city.

By a deed authorized by Champlain himself Abraham Martin, who was affectionately known as "Maitre Abraham," obtained a homestead on the heights of Quebec. His herds of sheep and cattle grazed on the table land along the St. Lawrence, which became known among the inhabitants of the town as the Plains of Abraham.

In 1908 part of the Heights of Abraham was converted into a Canadian national park.—Detroit News.

Why Indians Are Beardless

Most Indians would have a slight to moderate growth of beard and mustache if they allowed the hair to grow. Beards are not wholly unknown. Some of the Mexican Indians have full beards. The Guarayas, Bolivia, wear long, straight beards and the Cashibas of the upper Ucayli are bearded.

Why Mistletoe Grows High?

Mistletoe requires a great deal of sunlight. For this reason in bottom land forests of the East mistletoe is confined to the highest branches of the tallest trees, but in the intensity of sunlight in the Southwest mistletoe spreads over the entire tree.

Why Dealer Offers Box

The bureau of internal revenue says that the law states that after a cigar has been removed from the box it cannot be returned. It is, therefore, customary for a dealer to offer the box when a customer is purchasing cigars.

"Just Average" Persons

FALLACY OF SO-CALLED GUARANTEE OF BANK DEPOSITS BY LAW

An Attempt to Create Integrity by Legislative Act—Mere Words No Good Substitute for Individual Responsibility, Says Bankers' Chief.

By WALTER W. HEAD, President
The American Bankers Association

The bank deposit guaranty is an attempt to establish fictitious value—to create value by order of government. Adopted first in Oklahoma in 1909, this plan was carried into several western states and threatened, for a brief time, to become a serious issue in connection with our national banking system. Recent experience has proved, in this instance as in others, that sound economic law cannot be disregarded with impunity.

Walter W. Head

Oklahoma adopted the deposit guaranty as a result of the failure of a number of banks in the panic of 1907. The system was misnamed at the start. It was not a guaranty, in any true sense of the word, but simply a form of mutual insurance. The various state banks were assessed a limited amount, in proportion to their respective deposits, to pay the losses incurred by failures. For a time all went well. The prosperity incident to the development of territory, recently opened to development, prevented failures. But the deflation of 1920-1921 brought about a crisis in the guaranty system of Oklahoma. In November, 1921, the failure of the Bank of Commerce of Okmulgee brought the estimated total liabilities of the Oklahoma Guaranty Fund up to $3,354,000. Guaranty fund warrants drew 6 per cent interest, under the law which then existed, and this meant that the interest charge alone, on these outstanding warrants, amounted to two-thirds of the maximum possible annual assessment.

Failure and Repeal

Other banks failed in the following months, and the plight of the State guaranty fund became hopeless. State banks surrendered their state charters and entered the national system. By January, 1923, deposits in Oklahoma state banks were only $8,000,000, only half the total of November, 1921. This was the condition when the state legislature convened, and, after various attempts to relieve the situation by one of several expedients, the law makers repealed the guaranty sections of the banking law.

This is the story of the Oklahoma bank deposit guaranty, which was born, lived and died in the brief space of fourteen years. In that time the Oklahoma plan was adopted, with some modifications, by seven other states. In none of these has it been abandoned as yet. In every instance it has been subjected to severe strain, and in most of them the question of whether or not the guaranty fund can pay existing obligations is somewhat doubtful. My own state, Nebraska, I am thankful to say, is not one of these.

The guaranty of bank deposits failed in Oklahoma and is threatened with failure in other states because it was not what it pretended to be, and, furthermore, because it violated sound economic law. The so-called guaranty is not, in any state, what its name implies. It is not in fact a guaranty. It is an insurance plan dependent, as are all insurance plans, upon the sufficiency of the premiums which may be paid. Experience has proved that the premiums are not sufficient—and yet the insured cannot afford to submit to higher premiums. Conceived in economic sin, born in the midst of economic iniquity, the bank deposit guarantee in Oklahoma went the way of all similar attempts to overcome or defy the natural law of economics. And yet we have today in the Congress of the United States a Representative of the State of Oklahoma who will—if he has his way—foist this iniquitous, impracticable system upon the National Banking System.

Integrity Cannot Be Legislated

The fundamental difficulty with the insurance of bank deposits—to apply the correct name—is that it is an attempt to create integrity and financial ability by legislative act. Depositors in many instances were invited to accept, as their principal assurance of safety, a gilded sign upon the bank window, "This bank protected by the state guaranty fund." This protection, it has been proved, was not adequate; mere words were not a good substitute for individual responsibility, supported by stocks of gold or currency. No longer was there a premium upon the character of the banker; no longer did depositors feel the necessity of giving preference to men of character when they selected their banker. They felt that the guaranty fund took the place of that. But the guaranty of bank deposits in Oklahoma failed—as all efforts to substitute governmental dictum for integrity and ability must fail.

COW-SCALPERS

In Wisconsin the State Bankers Association is employing a man to give his entire time to the agricultural work of the association. His major activity is along the line of marketing dairy cattle. He is constantly in touch with the stock for sale in all parts of the State and is in position to refer a prospective buyer to stock of the breed and quality desired. He has the assistance of reliable field men who are good judges of dairy cattle. There is no need for any farmer to fall into the hands of unscrupulous "cow scalpers" if his bankers will only take an interest in helping him to make the right kind of connections.—Banker-Farmer.

Auto Collisions Over Week End

It was reported to the police department Sunday that a Ford car driven by Anna Brown and owned by Fred Ballard of No. 55 Elmendorf street, ran into a car of Joseph H. Mitchell of Northampton, Pa., on Broadway. Both cars were considerably damaged.

While riding his motorcycle on Abeel street, Charles Tucker collided with an auto of H. O. Maxwell of Utica. There was but slight damage.

PROMINENT PRIEST IS DEAD AT GLENS FALLS.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Glens Falls, N. Y., May 5.—The Rt. Rev. Mgr. Daniel F. Curtin, one of the best known Catholic clergymen in northern New York, died here this morning. He has been pastor of St. Mary's Church at Glens Falls since 1902.

Father Curtin was born in Syracuse in 1858 and was educated in Manhattan College, New York, and Troy Seminary. He was for a time assistant to his brother, the Rev. James A. Curtin, in Watervliet, and later went to West Albany, where he built the Clinton Avenue Catholic Church.

A few years ago Father Curtin gave a $10,000 scholarship fund to Holy Cross College to be used to educate students of St. Mary's Academy.

Morris Recovers Wheel.

Don Morris of Washington avenue, a newspaper carrier boy, Friday evening went to the Kingston Opera House leaving his bicycle parked in front. When he came out it was gone and he reported the fact to the sheriff. Saturday afternoon the bike was found at the Fair street fire station by Undersheriff Haulenbeek where a boy had left it. He had learned another boy "borrowed" the wheel while Morris was in the Opera House and rode around town but when he came back the show was over so he left it in the doorway where the E. Winter's Sons store was. Saturday a boy took the wheel from the doorway and went for a ride but took it later to the fire station, telling some one of his intention, which Undersheriff Haulenbeek learned, and going there found the wheel which he turned over to the Morris boy.

Helped Selves to Trees.

Sunday police headquarters received a 'phone call from a resident near Forsyth Park that an auto party had dug up five small balsam trees from the nursery in the park and driven away with them. Officer Fatum and Fout investigated and were given the number of the auto license. They found that the trees were being planted in the yard of a house on Smith avenue. Those who had taken the trees claimed they had obtained permission from a former member of the board of public works.

Instrument Measures Crops

A measuring instrument for attaching to an automobile by which the linear measurement of fields in various crops bordering on highways can be easily and quickly made has been devised by the United States Department of Agriculture. Successful experiments have been made with the instrument, which will be used in a number of states during the current year.

Denizens of the Deep Have Some Human Ways

Fish stories are important items of human experience, and the teeming life of the sea has ups and downs to match any fortune of the land. Young oysters, we are told, settle down to work after forty-eight hours of making a splash in their world.

Some become pearl manufacturers, and others just hang around the bars—plain old soaks. Starfish sometimes visit oyster communities and work the old shell game. Well, the oysters have made their beds—let them lie in them. And there are the limpets. They prowl around at night, but always in the morning they manage to find their own flats on the old home rock, and so save their faces in the eyes of the community. Ah, those sly, frolicking limpets.

And what armories of teeth—whelks have from 220 to 250 each, winkles 3,500, and the umbrella shell about 750,000 to the set. What a time there must be when the little umbrella shells are teething. Whelks, mon!

Life at the bottom of the sea is a pretty serious business.—Nation's Business.

One on the Pawnbroker

He stood, apparently deep in thought, under the three golden balls which hung above the doorway of the shop.

Presently resolution came to him; he crossed the threshold and inquired of the proprietor: "How much will you give me for this coat?"

"A shilling," retorted the pawnbroker, eyeing the shabby garment with undisguised contempt.

"Oh, make it 2 shillings," exclaimed the seedy one. "Hang it all, this coat's worth 5 bob if it's worth a penny!"

"My friend," said the pawnbroker, "I wouldn't give vive shillings for two overgoats like that—no, certainly I couldn't."

"Come, come!" replied the seedy one, persuasively. "Would you take a shilling for it if the coat were yours?"

"Yes, and think I'd done well!"

"Ah, then, that's all right. Here's your bob. I found the coat outside and brought it in to see how much it was really worth."—Toronto Globe.

There Only Six Nights

There being a Shakesperean repertoire company in town, a Liverpool magnate told his secretary to book a couple of seats.

"I'll telephone my wife," said the merchant, "and leave a memorandum on my desk as to what she wants to see."

A little later the secretary found the memorandum. It read: "Two tickets for Twelfth Night."

The next morning the secretary reported: "I couldn't get the tickets you specified, sir. The company will only be in town six nights."

Many Honest Citizens Have Criminal Faces

Have you a criminal face? Of course you haven't, you exclaim indignantly. Yet thousands of absolutely respectable, law-abiding citizens have developed, or are developing criminal faces, remarks London Answers.

How? Because, with defective eyesight, they shirk wearing glasses. Minus glasses, anyone with impaired vision screws his or her eyes up and peers. That's to get a focus; but the effect is to create an appearance of furtiveness, and it depends on the build of a face whether the furtiveness increases to an appearance of craftiness and cunning.

Again, there are thousands of quite sweet-tempered folk who look ill-tempered. Vertical lines run up their forehead as the result of "screwing" their eyes. Thus is a "cross" face made.

It may be argued that what a man is in character, and not what he seems to be facially, is what counts. But that applies only to those who know him. When we meet a stranger our first judgment of him, our decision whether we shall like him or not, depends to a very great extent on his facial appearance.

That is not to say that plainness, or even ugliness, if not of the repellant type, will make us give an adverse verdict, for charm of manner or speech may frequently cancel these things.

But if the stranger looks at us furtively, just because he ought to be wearing glasses, and isn't, or, because of the same omission, looks ill-tempered, what then? We don't take to him. Our judgment is wrong, of course; but he has asked for it.

The very obvious moral is—if you need glasses, get them and wear them. In these days we cannot afford to handicap ourselves by letting our faces be our misfortune. What we look like does really count.

Gentle hands were lifting Pat from the wreckage of his automobile, which had just been struck at a grade crossing by a fast passenger train.

Income Tax Up to Estimate

$16,000,000, Two-thirds of Yield, to Be Distributed to Localities on July 1—Refunds Soon.

Sixteen million dollars from 1923 personal income tax collections will be distributed on July 1 to county treasurers for the use of localities, according to announcement by Director Thomas M Lynch, of this bureau.

"This means," he said, "that the estimated yield of over twenty-four million dollars from this tax will be realized, because under the amendment the state this year will receive at the same time the remaining one-third or eight million. Previously there was an equal division of this fund between the state and the localities.

"Many budget committees in the cities, towns and villages annually await information as to how much they can figure on from this revenue, and it is with this purpose that we are notifying them so far in advance.

"Further distribution of these moneys will be made in October and next January.

"Our collections for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1923, are now $26,667,686.58 Because thousands of taxpayers paid no heed to press, radio and moving picture reminders that the law reducing the tax by one-quarter had been passed, we will probably have to refund between one-quarter and a half million dollars. Then our collections will run about ten million less than a year ago The increased personal exemptions and the exclusion from taxation of dividends on bank stocks in addition to this 25 per cent cut in tax payments account for this decline in revenue.

"Our forces are now engaged in sorting, coding and filing these returns. We ask those taxpayers who made these overpayments to be patient because of the inevitable delay which will ensue in refunding these amounts to them.

"Another matter of general interest is the fact that all the checks have been deposited, so while we are not in a position to advise taxpayers as to the actual receipt of payments from them, they can easily verify this fact by looking over their cancelled bank vouchers."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Very Attractive Style.

4701-4700. This costume will be nice in the new "plaid" materials or in mohair or linen suiting. Braid or stitching or banding in a contrasting color would be pleasing for trimming.

The blouse 4701, has a convertible collar and may be finished with wrist length or short sleeve portions.

The skirt 4700 shows the new flounce style. It is cut in 7 sizes: 25, 27, 29 31, 33, 35 and 37 inches waist measure, with corresponding hip measure, 35, 37, 39, 41, 43, 45 and 47 inches. The blouse 4701, is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. To make this costume as illustrated in the large view, for a medium size, will require 4 yards of 40 inch material If made with long sleeves 5⅞ yards are required.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 12c FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps by the Freeman Pattern Department, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Sent 15c in coin or stamps for our up-to-date spring and summer catalogue, containing 550 designs of Ladies and Misses' and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

HOLSTEIN BREED HAS TWO NEW LEADERS IN NEW YORK

Two new champion Holstein butter producing cows for New York are announced by the advanced registry department of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Onyx Lilith is New York's leading Holstein cow for the production of butter in ten months as a junior three-year-old.

The highest producing junior two-year-old cow of the state for ten months' production is Ormsby Sensation Abbekerk, owned by Julius Schmid at Montgomery.

Invest in Kingston's New Hotel!

OUR VISION—

Roger W. Babson says: "During the next ten years we will witness a great municipal race—a great municipal Marathon race. The cities which are now behind will have an opportunity to get into the first ranks, while some of the cities now in the front rank will drop back to the lower places. The result of the race will depend upon the vision of those who direct the affairs of these cities."

Progressive Cities Have Modern Hotels

It has been determined that a new modern hotel with approximately 125 rooms located in Kingston WILL PROVE TO BE A PAYING INVESTMENT.

We have faith in the Kingston of today—A VISION OF THE KINGSTON OF TOMORROW.

This Kingston SPIRIT WILL BRING tourists, conventions, investors, commerce and manufacturers and make a GREATER KINGSTON.

THIS IS MY CITY—IT IS YOUR CITY.

IN THIS SPIRIT WE WILL WORK TOGETHER early in May for the sale of stock in our great community enterprise; at that time all will be given an opportunity to show their faith in their city by purchasing stock in the NEW HOTEL.

Terms of Payment Are Within Reach of All

They are as follows: First payment 15 per cent of subscription being due on May 20, 1924, and 10 per cent July 1, 1924, 15 per cent October 1, 1924, 15 per cent January 1, 1925, 15 per cent April 1, 1925, 30 per cent July 1, 1925.

CLINTON AVE. QUINTET BEAT SUBSTITUTE TEAM 40-9

This Evening Seniors Play Fair St. Reformed Five.

The Presbyterian basketball team was unable to play Saturday night because one of their players was injured that afternoon. Clinton Avenue then played the Mack Five and easily defeated them, the score being 40-9. Dietz, Cranston and Snyder led in the scoring for the Clinton avenue team, getting 11-10-9 points respectively. Hyatt and Chipp got 6 and 4 points respectively. The Juniors also turned in another win, this being their eleventh straight victory.

This evening, the Clinton Avenue Senior team will meet the Fair Street Reformed at 7 o'clock. Both teams have won a game, so this will be the deciding game.

On May 17, the Clinton Avenue Seniors will play the men's class of the Sunday school.

The Great Idea

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

Money doesn't talk as much as people who have money.

There is no prospect of an early reduction in the wages of sin.

Professor Moulton of Columbia University says a baby is 85 per cent water, and we say nothing.

The man who only works never gets fat. It is the man who works intelligently who arrives.

The very newest "bob" is worn by Gladys, who keeps up with the newest fads. It is shingled, marcelled and worn with a bang. Its novelty lies in the fact that the hair is parted in the center from the forehead to the neck in the back. It is becoming.

If people hated wars as they do paying for them there would be perfect peace always.

A pessimist is a man who loaned an optimist some money once.

Respected the Aged and Weak.

"Why don't you ever laugh at any of my jokes?"

"Because I was brought up to respect old age and feebleness."

Many a wife would rather have her husband have his way than his say.

A Strain on the Family Tie.

His wife doth buy the wildest ties!
Red, orange, green and blue--
But do you think he wears this junk?
I'll tell the world he do.
—Chicago Tribune.

She chooses from each bargain sale,
Yellow, purple, mauve and pink;
The odds are on a real he-male
To dump 'em in the kitchen sink!

"Take a chair," Mrs. Will Crabb said hospitably as she ushered her visitor into the parlor.

"Alright," responded the man, "and I'll also take that table and the piano." He was from the Easy Installment Furniture Co.

Somehow or other we never could see much difference between shorter skirts and sleeveless dresses.

The girl back home thinks that you left town to make the heart grow fonder.

A man may be known by the company he keeps, but a woman is known by the company she sends into bankruptcy.

Watch Out!

Bill—You're spoofin' me.

Sam—No. She cleans his pockets while he presses her to him.

STARLIGHT AND SUNLIGHT, DR. ELLIS'S PICTURE SERMON.

At the Rondout Presbyterian Church Sunday evening Dr. Ellis gave the first of a series of picture talks, the subject of the series being "Starlight and Sunlight." Earnest souls have waited and longed in all ages for the coming of the divine soul and light to dispel the darkness of sin and evil from the world and usher in the day of righteousness and peace for humanity. The purpose of this series of sermons is to trace through the ages the gradual increase of the light of the knowledge of God. During the Old Testament dispensation of the light was dim and uncertain. It might be called "starlight," but it encouraged men to look for more light, and enabled them to find their way among the moral problems and difficulties that confronted them.

The topic of last night's sermon was "The Waning Light," and showed through Dore's graphic pictures the coming of the shadow typified in satan himself and the incidents in the Garden of Eden, the appearance of man whether brought into existence by a single act of creative power or by slowly working upon and though long lines of animal ancestry. The artist has pictured with all the powers of his vivid imagination the beauties in sky and earth of a freshly created world. In the second part, "The Shadow Deepens," and death enters—then "The Shadow Spreads" and a world is lost through the flood but despair changes to hope and the rainbow promises the light that was to battle with the powers of darkness. Next Sunday's sermon with picture the conquering march of that light.

Castles

I find the gayest castles in the air that ever were plied far better for comfort and for use than the dungeons in the air that are daily dug and caverned out by grumbling, discontented people. A man should make life and nature happier to us, or he had better never been born.—Emerson.

Orphan Boys At the Armory

On Thursday night at 8 o'clock the famous Boys' Band of the Lutheran Orphans' Home of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., will hold a concert at the armory here. The boys will arrive at Rhinebeck on Thursday afternoon at 3:47 and take the ferry to Kingston. They will respond to a welcome with their instruments at the downtown Freeman building. Their tour consists of Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh. On Friday morning they will motor out to the Ashokan by the kindness of several Kingstonians who have autos.

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville, May 5.—The regular May meeting of the Veterans' Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will be held in the rooms over the First National Bank, Tuesday, May 6th, at 3:30 p. m.

On Monday, May 5th, the D. D. G. M., R. W. Florence H. Cooke, and the A. G. L., R. W. Myron Styles, will officially visit Wawarsing Chapter, O. E. S. The Star degrees will be conferred upon four candidates. All members are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Elizabeth Freer was installed worthy chaplain and Mrs. N. V. Sawyer, queen, in Judea Shrine, White Shrine of Jerusalem, at Kingston on April 20th.

E. C. Hoemer, Jr., of the Press, has purchased of Russell Bliss the cottage on Tuthill Lane, just west of Francis D. Andrews's new house, erected last year and will take possession, May 25th. The purchase includes the building lot adjoining the house on the east and gives Mr. Hoemer a frontage of a hundred feet or so on the avenue.

Otto Johnson is making preparations to reopen the grocery store at the West End, the stand for years occupied by Jesse Low. He expects to be ready for business by May 15. Mr. Johnson successfully conducted a grocery there for some time, but gave it up two years ago to enter other business. Up until recently the store has been run by Van Keuren Brothers.

The annual meeting of the Beaver Dam Club was held at the store of Frank J. Potter, Friday evening, April 25th. The report of Secretary Vernon showed a number of improvements to the property last year, also that a quantity of pickerel and bull heads have been placed in the pond. Officers and trustees were re-elected as follows: President, Frank J. Potter; vice president, W. Kelly Shook; secretary and treasurer, L. E. Vernon; trustees, Winne Hoornbeck, H. B. Dutcher, George B. Reynolds. Following the meeting the trustees met and named the following executive committee officers: H. C. Coons, M. E. Lambert and S. M. Boyce.

Cold Conquers Plague

Prevalence of plague diminishes in cold weather, probably because the lower temperatures reduce the fleas to such small numbers that they are unable to keep up the transfer of virus. The existence of plague is roughly limited to a zone girdling the globe between the thirty-fifth parallels of north and south latitude. In the last 25 years 99.8 per cent of plague cases have been from areas with mean mid-winter temperatures of 56 decrees F.—Nation's Health Magazine.

Many Men Employed in Mapping British Coasts

Few people realize the hardships and dangers undergone by a comparative handful of officers and men belonging to the royal navy who work year in and year out surveying coast lines and mapping the little-known depths of the ocean.

The hydrographic department of the admiralty has eight sloops constantly employed in the task of keeping the seas charted, and 40 officers and 700 men are under the control of a rear admiral, says London Tit-Bits.

The bed of the ocean and the outlines of rocky coasts are constantly changing, so that for the safety of shipping charts and maps have to be revised and brought up to date at frequent intervals.

Cases have been known where whole islands have either appeared or disappeared in the course of a few hours. Falcon island, near the Tongas, for instance, was first discovered and charted in 1885, yet, although the mass of rock included cliffs rising fully 150 feet above the ocean level, it completely disappeared shortly afterward. In 1898 a volcanic disturbance once more brought the island to the notice of the surveyors, but before the end of the year it had disappeared again.

Small parties landing on wild stretches of coast are frequently met with showers of stones or even bullets from suspicious inhabitants. Again, much of the work has to be carried out from small boats, which may be away from the parent ship for a week or more at a time.

An officer and half a dozen men, detailed to work along a portion of the Chinese coast, encamped on a rock one night. Soon after daybreak a cruiser came along and began using this temporary refuge as a target for gunnery practice. Several shells found their mark before the men were able to make it known that the rock was inhabited.

Constructing System of Hard-Surfaced Highways

If Alabama citizens will get in the game and see to it that the millions of dollars voted in bonds to build roads are used at once to build roads in every county, these roads will help and they will be the means of bringing our people to a realization of the importance of good roads and more money will be raised in each county with which to build a system of hard-surfaced roads.—Andalusia Star.

World Wide Accomplishment

Lutherans Serve Needs of World's Suffering Through National Relief Organization.

Nearly six and a half millions of dollars, given by the Lutheran people of America for the relief of human suffering in Europe and other parts of the world, have been collected and distributed by the relief and reconstruction department of the National Lutheran Council up to and including April 26, 1924, according to figures just made public. Of this total $3,626,810 is the estimated valuation of 2,901,448 pounds of clothing which was donated to the poor in Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, Latvia, Poland and Russia, and other countries, and $203,623.93 represents the sum sum paid for transporting this clothing from New York to its destinations.

Food and cash contributions totalled an additional $2,064,338.09, distributed as follows: Austria, $85,349.14; Czecho-Slovakia, $45,660.75; Danzig, $2,898.21; Esthonia, $32,873.20; France, $114,761.62; Finland, $49,338; Germany, $744,615.30; Hungary, $75,513.06; Italy, $1,192; Latvia, $49,916.90; Lithuania, $4,342.59; Poland, $304,057.54; Spain, $2,776.61; Soviet Russia, $406,486.41; Wolhynia (Poland), $12,500; Switzerland, $25; Jugo Slavia, $14,450.79; Roumania, $79,216.54; special objects, $11,009.70; refugees in Turkey, $8,204; Far East Republic, $2,015.14; China famine fund, $14,536; and Japan earthquake relief, $2,303.55.

Another large item in the list is a total of $447,839.79 which American Lutheran Churches have given for the support of the foreign mission fields formerly supported by various European missionary societies, but "orphaned" by the war and the impossible economic conditions in Europe which followed.

Newfoundland Government to Change Again.

HON. WILLIAM WARREN

The Newfoundland Government of the Hon. William Warren, Premier, has been overthrown by a vote in the Legislature. This vote followed the indictment of the former Premier, Sir Richard Squires and others of his Government on charges of larceny of Government funds. Squires' followers succeeded in defeating the Warren Ministry.

POULTRY FACTS

POULTRY SPECIALIST SAYS NO BEST BREED

Which is the best breed is a question often asked us. In answer we have to say that there is no best breed. You can find good and poor layers, large and small birds comparatively in every breed. It is the strain more than the breed that is really the more important thing to consider.

There are three recognized general classes of poultry, the small birds or so-called egg producing class, the medium-sized bird, or the so-called dual purpose class, and the extremely large or the meat class. There is no great distinction between the egg class or the dual so far as the egg production is concerned, for many of the medium meat breeds are good egg layers. And in the small sized birds which are considered for egg laying only, there are oftentimes found individuals that will weigh from five to five and one-half pounds, and these would make a fairly good meat bird.

In regard to the breed you would like to have, it is suggested that you decide upon whether you want eggs primarily, or whether you want general purpose breeds. When you have made this decision, pick out the breed which you like best, because this is the breed with which you will get the best results. Then after you have picked the breed that you like best, buy your stock or eggs from a breeder whom you know has bred for the thing that you desire. This may be egg production, or it may be show purposes, or it may be a combination. You can find many breeders who have bred for egg production, but their stock may not be worth very much for show purposes. You can find breeders who have bred for show purposes and their stock, in turn, may not be worth very much for egg production. You can find a small per cent of breeders who have combined these two qualities and, of course, their stock would naturally be worth more because of this combination.

Just as a parting caution be sure you know the breeder from whom you are buying your stock and be sure that he has the strain of birds which have the qualities which you desire.—H. Embleton, Poultry Specialist, Colorado Agricultural College.

"Hatch Early" and Get More Eggs From Poultry

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Profits in poultry raising depend to a large extent on the earliness in the season that chickens are hatched. Because of this fact a slogan of the United States Department of Agriculture has been "Hatch Early."

The earlier in life a pullet commences laying the greater the number of eggs produced during the first laying year, department poultry experts say. Pullets should be in laying condition the first part of October, if good winter egg production is to be expected. The more eggs laid during November, December and January, the greater are the annual profits.

The department points out that in order to commence laying in October, pullets of the Plymouth Rock, Rhode Island Red, Wyandotte and similar breeds should be hatched the latter part of March or the first part of April. Pullets of the Leghorn, Ancona and similar breeds should be hatched the latter part of April or the first part of May.

Late-hatched chicks are rarely as profitable as early-hatched ones. When hatched late, they are not able to make as good growth during the hot summer months and do not mature in time to start laying in the early fall. There is little danger of farmers hatching chicks too early.

POULTRY NOTES

Wet brooder floors have caused the death of thousands of little ducklings.

• • •

One cannot expect strong, lively chicks from poorly selected hatching eggs.

• • •

Any bird lacking vigor and constitution should be removed from the breeding pen. Unhealthy birds have no place there. Aiming for quality rather than quantity gets healthier chicks.

• • •

A good dry mash, fed by means of hoppers, should be before the hens all the time. In the morning feed your grain in deep straw litter and again at night, but let the hens eat all the mash they want.

• • •

A good-sized breed is usually considered best for the farm in spite of the fact that the small breeds may lay a few more eggs per year.

• • •

Incubator failures are usually the fault of the operator, but skill comes with practice and following the instructions accompanying the machine.

• • •

Early spring is nature's most favorable growing season. Early hatched chickens have the advantage of this favorable growing season and a longer growing period.

Wedding Gowns and Bridesmaids Frocks!

The wedding gown perhaps, more than anything else, preserves the spirit and tradition of dress.

The priority of decoration over necessity is beautifully expressed in the wedding gown of today, in which an ornamental effect superceded by far, any other element of its development.

The spirit of adornment rather than raiment, dominates the fashioning of wedding gowns today.

Slender lined gowns in lustrous satin and youthful gowns with quaint bouffant effects, are handled in ultra modern mode.

The bride of today may match her frock with her personality and equally smart in flared or fitted lines.

You may select a simple gown of satin or satin combined with dainty laces at

$35.00 and $45.00

More elaborate gowns are priced up to $65.00.

For the Bridesmaids

We are showing a collection of charming frocks in Georgettes, Chiffons and Taffetas in lovely rainbow tints. Youthful gowns with quaint off the shoulder, basque and bouffant effects. Prices

$29.50, $35.00, $45.00

Lamb Threw Gift Books Over His Garden Wall

In none of the letters or lives of Lamb have I found evidence that he ever bought a new book. His literary interests were of no profit to publishers. The battered veterans on his shelves welcomed no dapper young recruits; but he received numerous presentation copies from authors, and such volumes, too modern to please his fancy, he was wont to throw over the wall into Westwood's garden, writes Harry B. Smith in Scribner's.

In this manner was formed the library of the younger Thomas Westwood, then a boy of thirteen.

"A Leigh Hunt," he wrote 40 years afterward, "would come skimming to my feet through the branches of the apple trees; or a Bernard Barton would be rolled downstairs after me from the library door. 'Marcian Colonna' I remember finding on my window sill, damp from the night's fog; and 'The Plea of the Mid-Summer Fairies' I picked out of the strawberry bed."

The writer possesses one of these outcast volumes, absolutely identified by Westwood's bookplate and Hunt's inscription to Lamb. The covers are damp stained; like the lost heiress of old drama, it is identified by a strawberry mark.

Farmers Using Geysers

Geysers are proving useful adjunct to farming in Iceland. A well-known dye works in that country linked up its factory with water pipes direct from the hot springs, and after using the hot water in the color processes and for heating the factory and the workmen's homes, conducted it through underground pipes laid in fields, which as a result yielded three times as much produce as neighboring fields not so equipped. Although from time immemorial the Icelanders have been familiar with geysers, only recently have their industrial uses been seriously considered, and a project is afoot to supply Reykjavik with hot water for heating, bathing and washing purposes from one of the neighboring hot springs.

Compromise

There was a rich uncle who wanted the baby named Violet. Aunt Pansy had money, too, and intimated that she would not be displeased to have a namesake. Mother wanted to name the child Lily.

It looked a deadlock. But wise old grandpa came forward with a suggestion that practically accommodated everybody. They named the baby Blossom.

Smooth Running —with NO OIL

Most important in a vacuum cleaner is smoothness and ease of operation. Does it need constant oiling? Does it balk when it's dry? Does it cry for oil to keep its motor working? Not in the Premier Duplex—with its ball-bearing motor, packed in lubricant. Always smooth running—but never needs oil!

Premier Duplex

There's many a vacuum cleaner problem solved in the new cleaner. Suction alone can't pick up threads. A brush with weak suction can't get all the dirt from a rug's depth. So the Premier Duplex combines a motor-driven brush with powerful suction. Double action—to clean cleaner.

Poughkeepsie Downs KHS Team

In First Duso League Game—Campbell Allows Local Nine but One Hit—Locals' Four Errors Very Costly.

Saturday afternoon, at the Fair Grounds, the local high school baseball team met defeat at the hands of Poughkeepsie high's nine. The game was very important as it was the first Duso League game for both teams. The score was 4 to 2.

The visitors did not earn any of their runs. Lawrence pitched a good game, having six strikeouts, two walks and seven assists to his credit. The visitors got to him only five times and they were all scattered.

Campbell, the Poughkeepsie pitcher, received good support and no matter where the locals would knock the ball, there was always a Poughkeepsie man to get it. Campbell had nine strikeouts, three walks and two assists to his credit. The locals were able to get but one hit from him.

In the first inning the visitors came across with their first run. Auwater flied out to Schmidt in right field. Kunhn lined one to Lawrence who threw to Vogt at first, for the second out. Shorter was walked and stole second. Then Bodenstein knocked a liner down the first base line which Vogt missed. Shorter rounded third and started for home and reached there just before Bodenstein was tagged out at second, trying to stretch his hit into a double.

The locals did nothing in their half of the first. Hoffman flied out to the pitcher. Howard was walked and stole second and third. Vogt struck out and Whiston flied out to right field.

In the second inning the visitors were unable to score. Hogan went out, Lawrence to Vogt. Kelly hit to Vogt who erred allowing the batter to reach first. Vandeburg hit between short and third putting Kelly on second. Key went out when he hit to Hauser. Campbell struck out with two men on.

Only three men faced Campbell in the second inning. Messinger, first man up, hit to third, but was put out at first. McLane struck out. Schmidt flied out to right field.

In the third inning the visitors added two more to their total. Auwater hit to left field. Kunhn was hit by a pitched ball and went to first. Auwater going to second. Shorter struck out. But Auwater and Kunhn executed a double steal before he went out. Hoffman made an error on Bodenstein's hit and Auwater crossed the plate. Kunhn moved to third and Bodenstein to second. McLane caught a fly, but held the ball too long and allowed Kunhn to score. Bodenstein was tagged out at second by Hoffman, ending the inning.

Again only three men faced Campbell. Hauser put a fly to left field, where it was caught. Lawrence hit to second, but was put out at first. Hoffman struck out.

Kelly was put out, Lawrence to Vogt. Vandeburg hit over second to center field for a single. Vanderburgh was put out at second when Key sacrificed. Campbell struck out, leaving a man on first.

Again only three men faced Campbell. Howard flied out to center field. Vogt struck out. Whiston went out on a fly to Bodenstein.

In the fifth only three men faced Lawrence. Auwater flied out to Hoffman. Hauser made a nifty stop of Kunhn's grounder and assisted Vogt in putting him out. Shorter hit to Lawrence, who threw to Vogt for the last out.

Messinger lifted a long fly to left field, but it was caught by Auwater. McLane drew a base on balls, but was put out at second, when Schmidt bunted. Schmidt stole second, but to no avail, Hauser striking out.

In the sixth inning the visitors made their last run. Bodenstein cracked out a single. Hogan struck out. Kelly hit to Hauser, who in a hurry to make a double play threw too fast to Hoffman, who dropped the ball. Bodenstein went home on the next play. Vandeburg flied out to Whiston and Key struck out.

Lawrence walked and stole second. Hoffman struck out. Lawrence was put out at second when Howard hit and reached first. Vogt was put out, third to first.

In the seventh Campbell hit a single to center field. Anwater sacrificed. Knuten walked. Shorter struck out. Bodenstein was put out, Lawrence to Vogt.

It looked as if the locals were rallying in this inning. Whiston struck out and Messinger flied out to third. McLane drew a walk again and stole around to third. Schmidt bunted and Hogan did not come through well on a fielder's choice leaving a man on third and one on first. Hauser killed all chances of a "lucky seventh" by flying out to the catcher.

In the eighth only three men faced Lawrence and were put out easily. Also only three faced Campbell.

In the ninth the visitors were put out easily and the locals made their two runs. Vogt went out on a fly to center field. Whiston was hit in the head by a pitched ball. Vogt ran for him. Messinger made a nice bid for a hit putting the ball out into far left field, but Auwater captured it. Vogt went to third and came in when McLane got to second on an error by Shorter, when he booted McLane's drive. Schmidt hit a stinging liner past the pitcher which hit the umpire in the shins. McLane came in. Making the score 4 to 2. The local fans saw a slight chance and all were on their feet yelling for more runs. But Hauser struck out, leaving Schmidt on first.

In order to come out on top of the DUSO League the local must beat all other teams and must trust to luck that some team will beat Poughkeepsie. Then there will be a tie or perhaps a triple tie.

A large crowd attended the game. About fifty high school girls led by Miss Tidquist hiked out to Old Hurley and back along the state road in the morning. They returned to Kingston about one-thirty and then came to the game.

Studebakers Won Second Straight

Manager McNally's Studebakers of East Kingston travelled to Ruby Sunday afternoon and won the second straight game of the season by defeating Ruby by a score of 10 to 7. Dietz and Watzka were in the points for the Studebakers, while Caunitz and Myers did the honors for Ruby. Watzka of the Studebakers made his second homer of the season.

Tuesday evening the first of a series of twilight games will be staged at East Kingston when the Studebakers will clash with the Ulster & Delaware railroad team of this city. The game will be called at 6:15 o'clock.

Next Sunday at East Kingston the Studebakers will clash with Kelly's All Stars of this city.

Chevrolets Won From Rosendale

Kid Taylor, Local Southpaw in Fine Shape—Gets 13 Strikeouts—Sickler Led Batters With Four Hits.

Kid Taylor lefthanded the Chevrolet baseball team to an easy victory over the Rosendale team at the latter's diamond Sunday afternoon. Taylor allowed but five hits and had thirteen strikeouts to his credit. The automobile named combination gathered a grand total of 16 hits for the afternoon's work. Sickler led the attack with four safe blows.

The final score saw the Chevrolets in front of a 14 to 2 tally. During eight innings of the struggle, the score was not quite as uneven, but nine runs in the ninth accounted for the big margin. The winners led by three runs up until the final frame and the game was much more interesting than the score indicates.

A large fleet of Chevrolets of all makes, carrying admirers, made its way to the baseball field and there was much cheering throughout the game.

Tested by Time.

Time is the true test of organizations as well as of men. Time proves character.

Thirty years ago C. D. Halsey & Company became members of the New York Stock Exchange and ever since have advanced steadily in size and prestige.

C. D. Halsey & Company,

Members New York Stock Exchange since 1894.

(Established as Toler & Halsey —1894-1901)

260 Fair St. Phone No. 295.

GEO. G. BROOKS, Mgr.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 5.—The stock market opened quiet and somewhat irregular today. Industrials were fractionally lower but heaviness in these issues was offset by firmness in the shipping and other parts of the list.

Irregularity characterized forenoon trading. Railroads held fairly steady.

Sam Lucas of Paterson, N. J., is visiting Orson Avery.

Several cases of measles in this place.

Mr. Doppel and party of friends of New York spent the week-end at "Eagle Lodge."

O. E. S. Spring Masquerade.

Clinton Chapter, No. 445, O. E. S., will hold its annual spring masquerade on Wednesday evening, May 7, at Clermont Hall, corner of Wall and John streets. Music will be furnished by Zucca, who will introduce a number of musical specialties. Masques may be obtained at the door.

Battery A Drills Tonight.

Battery A, 156 Field Artillery, will drill this evening at 8 o'clock. Recruits will be received at this time.

"The Golden City"

San Francisco is "The City of the Golden Gate," "The Golden City" and "The City of the Hundred Hills." Philadelphia has a great variety of claims to a character all its own, but most of the names refer to its early history. It probably would express a preference for "The City of Brotherly Love" or "The Quaker City."

Tonight—Buddies Big Maytime Dance. Clermont Hall. Zucca's Singing Orchestra. One big night.

WILTWYCK INN.

The Inn is constantly striving to improve the quality of its already fine cuisine. Sometimes hours are consumed in a fruitless search for some unique food specialties. We are anxious to secure home made made jellies and jams. Perhaps some of our Kingstonian friends can spare a moment to call 82-J and let us know where they may be obtained.

Ferrara Asks A Clear Road

Petitions Justice Hasbrouck To Issue Injunction Forbidding Kolle From Obstructing Way To Farm.

Antoinette Ferrara of the town of Saugerties at a special term of the supreme court held before Judge Hasbrouck Saturday applied for an injunction restraining Gustav Kolle and others from obstructing a right of way which leads to the Ferrara farm. Frank W. Brooks appeared for the Ferrara interests and Roscoe Ellsworth of the office of Brinnier & Canfield appeared for the Kolle family.

A right of way which leads to the Ferrara farm according to their contention has been obstructed from time to time by various means, one being the felling of trees across the road. Two gates which enter upon and right of way at either end of the roadway are in use as well as other gates along the roadway. The contention of the Ferrara family is that two gates have been erected to hinder them using the roadway in the usual manner and that two gates are unnecessary. The Kolle family contends that the inner gate or gates are necessary to divide off pirtions of their farm which are used for pasture purposes. Mr. Brooks stated that his client was not opposed to two gates at the entrances to the right of way but did not think the other two gates were necessary.

Judge Hasbrouck took the papers in the case and reserved decision.

When the Ark Sailed

Long ago March 17 was known as the anniversary of the date on which Noah and his family entered the ark.

Many hundreds of years ago, before there were theaters in England plays used to be given in front of the churches by the priests who acted out Bible stories. When March 17 came around a very funny play about Noah and his wife was performed. Mrs. Noah was a woman of a hot temper who thought her husband was quite losing his mind by building an ark. She refused flatly to live in it, even when the rain began to fall in torrents. The quarrel between Noah and his wife lasted until the water got so high that the shrieking woman had to jump in the ark at the end to save herself from drowning.

Too Trusting

After affecting an entrance into the bank the burglar found his way to the strong room. When the light from his lantern fell on the door he saw the sign:

"Save your dynamite. The safe is not locked. Turn the knob and open."

For a moment he ruminated. "Anyhow, there's no harm in trying it, if it really is open." He grasped the knob and turned it.

Instantly the office was flooded with light, an alarm bell rang loudly, an electric shock rendered him helpless, while a panel in the wall opened and out rushed a bulldog which seized him.

An hour later, when the cell door closed on him, he sighed: "I know what's wrong with me. I'm too trusting. I have too much faith in human nature."

The Thinness of Terrence

Two Irishmen met after a year's separation and were exchanging gossip.

"And how is Terence O'Toole these days?" asked Tim.

Mike shook his head dolefully.

"Ah, Tim, it's a dyin' man Terence is."

"Dyin'? And phwat makes ye think that, Mike?"

"Why, he's gettin' so thin! Now, you're thin, Tim, and I'm awfully thin, but sure poor Terence is thinner than both of us put together."—Everybody's Magazine.

It Happened in 79

A party of tourists was about to be steered through the ruins of Pompeii. The guide began his lecture by saying:

"Pompeii was destroyed by eruption in 79."

"Oh!" exclaimed the lady from the Middle West. "Just eight years after the Chicago fire!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Central Asia

Type of Cart Used in Central Asiatic Lands.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

By degrees the veil—in this c[ase] many feet of sand—is being dr[awn] away from the mysterious region [of] Central Asia whence some authori[ties] assert came the ancestors of the [peo]ples of all continents. As the san[d is] dug or blown from ruined cities [and] temples, history is being pushed [far]ther and farther back and there is [be]ing disclosed evidences of the high [de]gree of civilization and culture t[hat] existed in this mountain and des[ert] girt region thousands of years ag[o].

Perhaps the most fascinating [and] the most mysterious of these cen[tral] Asian regions is the Lop or Ta[rim] Basin, north of Tibet, which con[sti]tutes the heart of eastern or Chin[ese] Turkestan. The entire central port[ion] of the basin is desert but around its [rim] between it and the mountains t[hat] almost encircle it, is a string of oa[ses] that have figured prominently in [his]tory. In these oases today are tow[ns] whose names at least are famili[ar]: Yarkand, Kashgar, Khotan, and m[any] smaller ones to the north, less kno[wn] but locally important.

It is only within the last half c[en]tury that the West has become p[reson]ably well acquainted with the [Lop] basin; but medieval Europe had M[un]chausen-like tales of the region in [the] celebrated "letters of Prester John, [a] more or less mythical character, w[ho] was represented to be a power[ful] Christian emperor living in cent[ral] Asia. In one of the letters it is sta[ted] that: "Among other things which [are] very wonderful in our country is [a] sea of sand without water. For [the] sand moves and swells in waves in [the] manner of all seas, and is never st[ill]. This sea cannot be crossed either [by] boat or by any other method, and [of] what sort the land may be beyond [it] no one can know. And although wa[ter] is absent entirely, nevertheless th[ere] are found on the shore on our s[ide] many kinds of fish more delicious [and] sweet-tasting than are ever seen a[ny]where else." Other wonders are [re]lated of the same region. For [in]stance: "Into the Sandy sea its [river] flows, three days of the week, a ri[ver] of stones without water, impassa[ble] while its flow continues. Beyond [it] lies another river, whose sands [are] mere precious stones; or someti[mes] this River of Gems flows through [the] Sandy sea, and is indeed the Sabba[tic] river, flowing six days and resting [the] seventh, which keeps the ten tribes [of] the Children of Israel from cross[ing] into the land of Prester John. And [in] one part of the desert where the [Sea] lies is a people with round feet, l[ike] horses' hoofs; and in another part [is] the land of Femenye itself," a la[nd] where none but women dwell, and th[ey] are "very stark and cruel", and [no] man dare bide more than an hour.

Old Tales Not Far From Truth.

Strange as these stories sound, th[ey] are only slight perversions of [the] truth. During a recent visit to [the] Lop basin facts were observed wh[ich] may perhaps explain all of them. F[or] instance, when first one sees Chin[ese] women of high class their diminut[ive] feet are strangely suggestive of [the] hoofs of animals. As to the fable [of] the land of Femenye, there is nothi[ng] now to give rise to it directly. Ma[rco] Polo relates, however, that in his d[ay] in the region of Hami, not many hu[n]dred miles from Lop-Nor, none b[ut] women were found in the villa[ges] when caravans arrived. The men [de]parted in order that the travel[ers] might be more comfortable, and mig[ht] be the more ready to pay for ent[er]tainment. Even today the people [of] Hami possess customs which seem [to] be a reminiscence of the ancient hab[it].

The Lop basin, in the very center [of] Asia, is a great depression, 14[00] miles long from east to west and [?] miles wide. Around it lies a ring of lo[fty] plateaus from 10,000 to 20,000 f[eet] high. At their base is a ring of pi[ed]mont gravel, almost destitute of li[fe] and sloping gently inward like a hu[ge] beach from 5 to 40 miles wide. Th[en] comes another ring, the zone of vege[ta]tion, where alone there are plants a[nd] an opportunity for human inhabita[nts] other than the few nomads of [the] plateaus. Finally within the zone [of] vegetation lies a vast desert area ab[out] 1,000 miles long and 250 wide. [The] western three-quarters consist of [a] veritable sea of sand, the Takla-Kak[an] desert, yellow or gray on the edg[es,] pink in the inner portions. Row af[ter] row of almost impassable sand du[nes] has been piled up by the wind [to] heights of full 500 feet in places. T[he] smallest dunes often move forw[ard] hundreds of feet in a year in the direction of the prevailing winds; the largest scarcely move at all. The sand is most beautiful, with its graceful sweep of wavy dunes and ripples, but the natives hate and fear it. It has proved the grave of many a native gone mad with thirst in the vain search for the gold supposed to lie hidden in sand-buried ruins.

A few rivers flow into the desert of Takla-Makan. Most of them soon wither go nothing. All are very variable, and some, such as the Vash Sheri, flow in raging, impassable torrents during sunny weather in summer, but dry up when cloudy days among the mountains prevent the melting of snow. The dry beds of these "Sabbatic" streams form veritable "rivers of stones." In certain cases one might almost say with the old chronicler that there are streams "whose sands are mere precious stones." When the Khotan and Keriya rivers are low, crowds of natives go out from the oases to dig in the gravel of the river bed for jade, one of the most highly prized of Chinese precious stones. Gold also is found in the upper parts of the beds of the Keriya and other rivers.

Sea of Salt is a Marsh.

East of the Sea of Sand there lies a Sea of Salt, the bed of the ancient Lake of Lop-Nor. Today the lake is merely a marsh, fed by the Tarim river, and filled with huge reeds 12 to 15 feet high. Near the mouth of the river, where alone the water is fresh enough to support life, the Lopliks have planted their villages of reeds. Formerly, according to their own account, they lived wholly on fish and birds caught in the open lanes and pools of the swamp, where the fishermen still paddle their canoes of hollowed poplar. They cannot go far to the east, for there the swamp grows more and more saline, until finally it merges into a great plain of salt, the bed of the expanded lake of former times.

The old bed of Lop-Nor is one of the most absolute deserts in the world. Even the hardy natives never venture into it. For five days a caravan of Western explorers recently stumbled wearily over a sea of rock salt broken into huge polygons 10 or 12 feet in diameter, which had buckled up around the edges to a height of from one to three feet. It was like the choppiest sort of sea frozen solid. When what appeared to be soft places were selected in which to pitch tents, the iron tent pegs bent double. For 60 miles north and south and for nearly 200 east and west there is absolutely not a sign of any living thing.

It is relatively but a little while since Lop-Nor was much larger than now and expanded to such a size that most, if not all, of the old bed was covered by water, as is proved by the location of ancient roads and beaches. At the time of Christ, the lake appears to have been of large dimensions. Then it diminished in size, and about five centuries later was probably as small or smaller than it now is. Later it expanded, and with varying fluctuations remained comparatively large until about 1600 A. D. Now it has once more diminished, and the people who formerly were supported by it have largely died off. A century or two ago they used to carry fish two or three hundred miles eastward to the Chinese cities where Nestorian Christians lived in the days of Marco Polo and earlier. Now the desert has become so rigorous and the fish have so decreased in number that the traffic has been given up. The writer of the letters of Prester John was almost right when he said that fish were procured from the Sea of Sand. They certainly came from the border between it and the Sea of Salt.

In the last few years important finds have been made among the ruins of temples and cities in the edge of the deserts of Chinese Turkestan, over which sand has drifted. Caves, too, have been found in cliffs rimming the deserts, in which are elaborately carved and decorated shrines. The evidence so far uncovered indicates that the people who lived in the country before the Christian era had Indo-European languages and so are closely connected with Europeans. The religion of these early inhabitants was Buddhism, but later they were conquered by Moslems and Mohammedanism is now dominant. The finds even seem to indicate that it may have been from this region with its ancient thriving civilization that the ancestors of the Chinese came.

TRUCKS AND ROADS HELP CREAMERIES

Some fifteen or more years ago we predicted larger co-operative creameries would be established and that the smaller ones would pass out of existence on account of the coming of the truck and better roads. The small local creamery has served its purpose well, but we have come to a period in the development of the creamery industry when larger local creameries are essential. The advent of the truck and good roads makes this possible and practicable.

It is well known to every manufacturer that he must have a certain volume of business in order that his products be manufactured at the least expense. There is such a thing, however, as an institution being too large to be economical, as well as too small. There is a happy medium for the size of our local co-operative creameries. An institution manufacturing 1,000,000 pounds of butter in a year will have a minimum manufacturing cost provided the management is efficient.

We think well of having a creamery in every community and of sufficient size that it can carry on its business upon the proper basis. It is something every community can be proud of; it gives increased value to the land, for when a creamery is situated close to the farm there is always a sure market for the cream or milk produced on the farm. When milk or cream was delivered by team it was essential that the creameries be closer to the farm for in most cases it was not economical to haul milk more than three or four miles. A local creamery now can be ten miles from the farm and the product can be delivered to that creamery cheaper by truck than when the patron lived but three miles away from the creamery when horses were used for hauling the raw products of the farm to the creamery.

Good roads and auto trucks are changing our creamery system. They are changing it for the better, for they increase the capacity of creameries, making it possible for them to render a better service to their patrons, produce a more uniform quality of product, and engage in other activities like the handling of poultry and eggs.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Compound Interest Paid on Highway Investment

The gradually accepted figure of 10 cents a mile as the cost of operating the average automobile was adopted recently by the Wisconsin railroad commission as its official standard. The rate is held interesting for its many applications.

In Minnesota, for example, the recent traffic census showed that the average section of the state trunk highway system is traveled by 834 vehicles a day. If a new location or other change shortens the distance on a route carrying average travel it follows that it would mean a saving to 834 car owners—auto taxpayers who are bearing the big share of trunk highway costs.

At 10 cents a mile, that saving would be $83.40 a day—more than $30,000 a year, and $300,000 in ten years, all exclusive of the cost of improving and always maintaining the extra but unnecessary mile.

Highway Billboard Nil in State of Minnesota

Minnesota's new law passed by the last legislature, prohibiting all advertising signs on trunk highways, has gone into effect. Thousands of signs ranging from small tin tags to billboards of various sizes on state rights of way, were removed. Only signs expressly excepted by the law are to be left. Bulletin boards for legal notices and marking of trails are the main exceptions.

According to highway department officials, the removal of the signs will not only take away unsightly objects but eliminate billboards which obstruct the view and distract attention at dangerous cross roads.

Reclaimed Rubber Made Into Bricks for Paving

New tires roll over old in an experimental pavement laid by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road at the Main street grade crossing at Racine, Wis. The paving material is a "brick" made from scrap tires by a new process recently developed. The design of the pavement was made by C. W. Brainbridge, chief engineer of design of the railroad, and the rubber bricks rest on a base of wood. If the experiment is a success, the railway company intends to install similar crossings throughout its system.

Continuous Paved Roads Return to Washington

A motorist can start from the zero milestone in Washington and travel a circle tour of 2,350 miles back to Washington again over a continuous dustless paved highway. This continuous section takes the traveler from Washington to St. Louis, thence through Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Montreal, Albany, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Fell for Three Stories

"Now it's jist like I was a-tellin' ye," said a grizzled old Irishman to a group of workmen. "Once when my gang was helpin' put up a skyscraper I fell fer three stories an' it didn't hurt me nary a bit."

Here the stranger who had paused to listen remonstrated.

"But how could a person fall for three stories and not be hurt?" he sternly inquired.

"Well," replied the veteran, a twinkle creeping into his eye, "you've already fallen fer one, an' I guess fallin' fer two more won't hurt ye."—Everybody's Magazine.

Colonials Trim Pittsfield Pros

Score 2-0—Corregan, Former High School Pitcher, Works Seven Innings, Being Relieved by Culloton.

Sunday afternoon at the Fair Grounds, Bob Corregan, the Colonials' schoolboy southpaw, hooked up with Henry, of the Pittsfield Pros, another left hander, in the one of the prettiest pitching duels seen in local baseball in some time. Henry mixed in a fast hook with a slow ball and a straight one that had worlds of speed and had the Colonials guessing and missing badly. For four innings he pitched no-hit ball and then Bobby Coyle hit a liner down first base path and thus it was that the Colonials broke into the hitting column.

Corregan also had a nice hook working and after the first inning his control was good. He got in several bad holes but clever pitching and airtight support in the pinches kept the Pros away from the plate. Bob allowed but three hits during his stay on the mound. He tired in the seventh and Judge Schirick picked the right moment and sent in Bud Culloton as a relief pitcher. And Bud did his work. He walked the first man that faced him and then fanned six in a row. He threw just eleven balls up to the plate in the eighth inning. It was a pretty exhibition of pitching and the fans appreciated it too.

Corregan got himself in a bad hole in the opening stanza by walking the first two men to face him. Conley sacrificed the runnrs along. Disco slammed a hard one at Nelse Dewey and McCartney was caught by the fine throw to the plate. Brace ended the inning by popping to Robins. After that the youngsters breezed along nicely until the fourth. Nelse Dewey booted to Disco's liner and the big catcher made first. He stole second but was caught off the bag when Dewey scooped up Brace's offering and threw to Deegan.

The Colonials failed to get a man to first until the fourth session. Henry hit Leo Dugan in the ribs with a fast one and Leo trotted to first. Then followed a series of misplays that netted the Colonials' first tally. Henry threw to catch Dugan off first but DePew was fast asleep and the ball went into right field, Dugan taking second. Dewey slashed a hard liner over short and Dugan raced for third. Too late he saw King leap into the air and stab Dewey's drive. Leo started back for second and King threw wild over McMahon's head in his attempt to double Dugan at second and Leo made third before the ball was returned to the infield. From there he scored on a passed ball.

That one tally looked big then and as the innings passed it continued to look bigger and bigger. Coyle hit safely in the fifth but Robins and Corregan could not send him along. Schaffer opened the seventh with a hard grounder that Conley could not handle. Billy Schwab sacrificed him to second and when Coyle was hit by one of Henry's shoots, it looked good for another Colonial run. McMahon gathered in both Robin's and Culloton's flies and left the runners stranded.

The sixth inning for the Pros was a thriller. Corregan walked King and then threw low to Coyle on Conley's bunt and both runners were safe. Disco bunted down the third base line and was safe when no one covered first. Three on and none out. Corregan showed he has real stuff in him by pulling out of this hole. But a lot of credit is due Jack Robins for his work in this inning. Conley took a big lead off second and Jack whipped the ball to Deegan to catch Conley. King tried to make the plate on the throw but Deegan's quick return sent him back toward third. Robins and Schaffer ran him down. This play saved the Colonials from being scored upon for the next man, Brace, hit past Schaffer and again the bases were full. DePew hit a sharp grounder to Coyle, forcing Conley at the plate. Robins's return failed to get DePew at first by inches. Murphy grounded to Coyle to end the inning.

The visitors threw another scare into the Cols in the seventh. McMahon filed to Coyle as a starter and Corregan issued a base on balls to Henry. McCartney hit to short and Henry was out, Dewey to Deegan, McCartney making first on the play. He stole second. Corregan was beginning to tire and hit the next batter. Schirick then sent Bud to the mound to stop the Pros. Culloton walked the first man and then fanned Disco on three pitched balls. The last two innings were fast. Bud fanned Brace, DePew and Murphy in the eighth, McMahon and Henry in the ninth and McCartney ended the game by grounding to Dewey.

The Colonials' lead was not safe enough, according to Leo Dugan's way of thinking so he took it upon himself to make it safe. He selected one of Henry's fast ones and poled it over the right field fence. Henry put on the steam after this and though Dewey hit through shortstop, his bingle went for naught, as Raskin, Deegan and Schaffer could not touch the southpaw for a safety.

From the performance of Bobby Corregan yesterday it would seem that Manager Schirick has solved a goodly part of his pitching problem. The locals were in great need of a good southpaw and the high school portsider should fill the gap nicely. Robins is experienced enough to help a youngster along over the rough and hard spots and will be a great aid to Corregan in making the grade.

Too Ambitious

The colonel was delivering an address to junior officers up for examination. He dwelt with much emphasis on the fact that each officer should devote the intervening time to prepare for the final examination. "The examination papers are now in the hands of the printer. Are there any questions to be asked?" Silence prevailed. Suddenly a voice from the rear quietly inquired: "Who's the printer, sir?"

Origin of Americans

The habit of calling inhabitants of this country Americans probably arose from the fact that any other distinctive title is awkward. Canada lends itself easily to the forming of the noun Canadians, Mexico to Mexicans. Citizens of the United States of America are most conveniently designated as Americans.

Hangings Stopped Growth

There stands in a field near "Capp's Lodge," not far from Burford, Oxfordshire, an oak with the inscription on its trunk, "H. D.; T. D., 1784." It is this tree on which the bodies of Henry and Thomas Dundson were gibbeted, after being hanged at Gloucester for highway robbery. They were leaders of the "Dundson Gang," who once terrorized that countryside. It is not a large tree. Local superstition declares that it has ceased to grow since being put to that use.

Buys Book He Lent

Charles Gannon, of Washington, h occasion to refer to Max Maretzek "Crochets and Quaver," the remin censes of the famous impresario. Ga non then recalled that he had on owned a copy of the book but h lent it 25 years ago. Like many good book lent it never came ba He went to the bookstore to see if could buy a copy. Lo and behold, t clerk handed him his own autograph copy of the book.
